Change coming to Riverside, Jericho

Chittenden Mills Beverage has a new owner

By Brenda Boutin

Chittenden Mills Beverage has been a fixture in Jericho for years. The beverage store recently changed ownership and as of Tuesday, November 12, 2019, Dan Lareau is working as owner to serve the community just as he has for the past ten years.

Ray Ely, owner of River Road Beverage, purchased the business fifteen years ago. He moved Dan Lareau, one of his employees, from the Essex store to Jericho. Lareau managed the business for Ely. "He (Dan) has been the face of the business for the past ten years," Ely said. "He's a good guy and has done a good job. I wish him well."

"This is the best job I've ever had," Lareau said, his voice exuding joy. "I am happy to own the business. I will honor the currently existing gas/coffee coupons." The store carries wine, beer and spirits, general convenience items, and gas. Stop in on your way home and congratulate Dan.

The beverage store was originally a part of E.W. Bailey's property which included the Old Red Mill building and the house across the large parking lot. According to Gary Irish of Jericho, the mill closed in about 1946 and the property was sold to George White, who built a building where Chittenden Mills Beverage is and ran it with his son Floyd as a service station until around 1953. It changed hands again, and Skip Bennett and Harold Rose owned it until the early 1970s. Dave Whitcomb took a turn running the garage and later Elwood Pratt changed the focus, making it into a convenience store. The beverage store was purchased by Champlain Oil.

Chittenden Mills Beverage is located at 39 VT Rt. 15, Jericho, VT, near other businesses including Joe's Snack Bar, Mane Street Stylist, Rebecca Davis Gallery, the Old Mill Craft Shop, and Jericho Cafe & Tavern.

Jericho has three state designated village centers, Riverside being one. The sawmill property is a part of this center. The property, about 17 acres, has been purchased by Greg Tatro of Cambridge and is in the early stages of development planning. The parcel of land is zoned as mixed use, which requires a design for a mix of residential and commercial properties.

Tatro has been stabilizing the sawmill building. "It's been a lot of work," Tatro said. "We thought about tearing it down but decided it had a solid structure and went ahead and started rebuilding it." So far the building has a new roof, new windows, and siding. According to the town website, Tatro has tax credits from the state of Vermont for the project.

Greg Tatro, a town representative, and Rick Hamlin from the Hamlin Engineering firm met to come up with a master plan that would include new internal streets and buildings, both commercial and residential. "We came up with a rough sketch," Greg said. "It'll be a month or more before our plan is ready to go before the zoning board. I don't expect to start building before 2021. There's a long process to get all the permits in place." An image can be found on the Town of Jericho's website, <https://jerichovt.org/>.

The Halloween storm — Thursday, October 31, 2019 — brought torrential downpours in the Jericho, Underhill, Cambridge, and Westford area. High winds toppled trees across the roads. The Browns River flooded many fields and washed away part of the retaining wall at the Old Red Mill in Jericho, which houses the Old Mill Craft Shop.

Jericho's road crew spent Thursday night and well into the weekend working to keep water off the roadways and in the ditches. Adam Mcgee, Jericho road foreman, said they started at 10:30 PM Thursday night, making cutouts with graders to allow drainage from the traveled roadways back into the ditches. Although they saw plenty of flooding, only 16 roads were affected. He "guesstimates" there was from $80,000 to $90,000 in damage. The hardest hit roads in Jericho were Hanley, Shillhammer, Snipe Island, and Orr.

"We are concentrating on getting the roads ready for plowing," Mcgee said. He went on to say how much he appreciated the four man crew he has. "I've been here six months, two men less than a year, and Roger Miller has been with the road crew for nineteen years. I cannot thank them enough for their dedication to getting the work done." The crew worked around the clock and most of the weekend to get all roads back to two lane capacity.

Underhill road foreman Nate Sullivan said they have been repairing 20-25 roads. "All roads are passable," he said, "but some are only one lane." Sullivan said only one road is not passable, that being the back side of Maple Leaf Road. "Our crew has done a good job," Sullivan added.

Some washouts were caused by driveway culverts getting full of leaves and debris. The crews are trying to finish up all repairs by the end of next week in anticipation of their snowplowing needs.

Cambridge road foreman Bill Morey was sure that they had fared pretty well. "I estimated about $25,000 to $30,000," he said. "Then we discovered major damage to a culvert on Hogback Road." Morey estimates the replacement of that culvert alone will run between $200,000 to $300,000 thousand range. "We have the road open for one and three quarter lanes," he said. The major repairs will take place in the spring. Morey feels the town was pretty lucky that there was not more damage. Morey says his crew has worked hard and he is proud of them.

Greenway flood damage repair

Laird MacDowell, CTC Chair

The Cambridge Trails Committee (CTC) hired Allen Audette to repair flood-damaged sections of the Cambridge Greenway Path between the VT Rt. 108 and VT Rt. 15 bridges and that work has been completed. Allen was able to recover the surface gravel washed from the path onto adjacent fields with his tractor and place it back on the path. The path is now walkable and ready for snowmobile season. Once the ground freezes the path can also be ridden by mountain bike. Replacing the packed surface gravel lost from flooding will wait until late spring after the threat of snowmelt flooding has passed.

Fortunately the flood did not cause much erosion to the riverbank behind Aubuchon Hardware, and only minor damage to the orange safety fencing, which has been repaired by committee members.

The Cambridge Junction trailhead was also spared from flood damage, but sections of the LVRT were impacted, especially near Willow Crossing. VAST is responsible for repairing the LVRT.

The bicycle repair station tools, air pump, and signage at the trailhead have been removed for winter storage.

Finally, we are still missing a small wood and white metal framed picnic table from the Greenway Path that floated away during the flood. Please contact me if spotted.

Informational hearing

on Lease Land in Underhill

By Brian Bigelow, bbigelow@underhillvt.gov
Town Administrator, Underhill

The Underhill Selectboard will host an informational meeting on Wednesday, November 20 at 6:30 PM. The subject of this meeting is the implications of 24 VSA section 2409, Retention of municipal ownership of lease lands.

These historical lease lands were distributed throughout town in categories referred to at the time as Glebe, Corporation, Minister, School, and Governor's Right. Over time awareness and understanding of the lease language in deeds has ebbed and flowed. Recently they have complicated the transfer of some properties. The historical aspect as well as current repercussions will be discussed.

Aging in Place with Mount Mansfield Villages

By Phyl Newbeck
Special to the Mountain Gazette

This June, people 50 years of age and older discovered a new option to help them age in place. Mount Mansfield Villages (MMV) was formed as a way to provide services to those who might need assistance with certain tasks but want to continue to live independently. The idea for MMV began with a book group that has been together of over three decades. "We've gone through children and grandchildren and aging parents," Board of Directors President Jeanne Hutchins said. "Now we're dealing with ourselves and our spouses."

Mount Mansfield Villages is governed by an eight-person board with five Underhill residents, two Cambridge residents, and one person from Jericho, who meet once a month. They are part of a national group called Village to Village which was formed in 2010, starting with a community in the Beacon Hill area of Boston. As of 2019, almost 250 similar villages have been created in 41 states and the District of Columbia, with many others in the development phase. In Vermont, Mount Mansfield Villages is joined by Lamoille Neighbors, Inc. and as-yet-to-named village in Montpelier.

Mount Mansfield Villages has been in the discussion phase for two years and officially started in June with 32 members and 30 volunteers, although there is some overlap between the two groups. Hutchins, a resident of Cambridge, said there has been great turnout for community events. The annual fee is $240 for an individual or $300 for a two-person household but scholarships are available for those with limited finances. Steve Webster, an Underhill board member, has developed the website which keeps track of volunteers and membership.

Hutchins, who also serves as the Executive Director of the UVM Center on Aging, said the most commonly requested service, both in Vermont and nationwide, is transportation. Other services the Village provides include check-in phone calls or friendly visits (often requested by an out-of-town child), computer or remote control assistance, yardwork, shopping trips, and replacing burned out light

Area 4-H'ers recognized for their achievements

More than 80 area 4-H'ers and family members gathered at the Champlain Valley Exposition in Essex Junction on Sunday, November 3 for the annual Chittenden County 4-H Achievement Dinner and Awards Night.

The event celebrated the achievements of 4-H club members in the past year in project work, community service, and leadership. Several adult volunteers also were recognized for their years of service as club leaders.

Members of the Whispering Pines 4-H Club in Westford were the hosts for the evening, helping to decorate and organize games for attendees to play. Club member Eva Joly of Essex Junction gave a talk, "The Amazing Race," about a 600-mile endurance horse race in Mongolia. She will present this talk again when competing in the horse communications contest Saturday, November 9 at Eastern National 4-H Horse Round Up in Kentucky.

Certificates of Participation were given for a minimum of six to eight hours of work in a specific project, with Certificates of Excellence for eight or more hours of project work including presentations beyond the club level.

To earn a medal, the 4-H'ers must have previously earned a Certificate of Excellence in that project, be enrolled in the project for more than two years, and participated beyond the club level. Certificates of Continued Achievement are presented for continued medal-level achievements after receiving a medal.

4-H'ers perform well at national horse event

Vermont 4-H'ers had a good run at the Eastern National 4-H Horse Roundup in Kentucky, placing in the top 10 teams in three of the four competitions they entered.

The annual event took place Friday-Sunday, November 8-10 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville. Considered the largest national 4-H horse program contest, it attracted more than 250 youths from 25 states, who competed in communications, quiz bowl, horse judging, and hippology.

Representing the state on the communications team, which placed third overall, were Chelsea Carcoba, Danville (individual presentation); Eva Joly, Essex Junction (public speaking); and Jasmine Mooney and Katherine Stone, both from St. Johnsbury (team presentation). The team members all placed sixth in their respective competitions.

To determine team rankings, scores were added together from each communications contest. They were coached by John Joly, Essex Junction (public speaking); Andrea Scott, Milton (team presentation); and Amanda Turgeon, St. Johnsbury (individual presentation).

Vermont finished ninth in the judging competition, with team member Grace Parks, Essex Junction, earning a spot in the top 10 for high individual scores with a sixth-place finish. Her teammates were Jordan Bombard, Duxbury; Emma Cushman, Barre; and McKenna White, Whiting. Their coach was Deb Danforth, Castleton.

The horse quiz bowl team also placed ninth after several fast-paced buzzer rounds to answer questions on anatomy, nutrition, breeds, horsemanship, feeds, horse care, and history of the horse, among other topics. The team, which was coached by Julia Adams, Shrewsbury, included Elyza Bird, Benson; Lilia Kocsis, Vernon; Faith Ploof, Westford; and Serena Welch, Shoreham.

In multi-phase hippology contest the 4-H'ers participated in a written exam, judging, team problem solving, and identification stations. Members of this team were Chloe Barewicz, Jericho; Lillie Tuckerman, South Woodstock; and Emma and Madison Zimmermann, Northfield. Jolene Fontaine, Jericho, was their coach.

Before returning home, the 4-H'ers toured Churchill Downs in Louisville, home to the Kentucky Derby, and the Fritz Leeman Farm, a horse breeding farm in Massillon, OH. Mary Fay of Westford accompanied the delegation, along with the team coaches.

bulbs or batteries in smoke detectors. Mount Mansfield Villages also sponsors speakers and group activities like a recent shredding party. They try not to duplicate services provided by other agencies, such as Meals on Wheels. Volunteers come from all age groups, although they are required to be over the age of 18. Hutchins is hoping to be able to include some supervised high school students, as well, so they can fulfill their service requirements.

Hutchins said the Vermont Department of Aging and Independent Living has written the villages model into the state plan on aging. MMV's target is 70 households, but Hutchins recognizes that a lot depends on funding. At this point, they have not requested financial assistance from any of the three towns covered, but they would like at some point to be able to hire a half-time staff person. All the work is done virtually so there is no need to spend money on an office. Funds have been contributed by Ben & Jerry's, Concept 2, Union Bank, the Harnisch Foundation and private individuals. Financial backing by UVM Medical Center and the UVM Center on Aging has allowed board members to attend the Village to Village national conference.

Hutchins said the national organization has been invaluable, thanks to their open source documents which provide information on all facets of developing a village. A listserv allows for the exchange of ideas, as well. "We plan on doing more outreach," Hutchins said. "We've done background checks and trained our volunteers but a lot of our members aren't asking for services yet. We will reach out to local doctors and physical therapists and our numbers should increase via word of mouth. We don't want to grow too fast."

Winter driving in Vermont: R U Ready?

By Bill Schubart

I was hurt. I always thought of him as my friend. He couldn't stop laughing long enough to utter a word. Evidently I had said something funny when I called him but I had no idea what I'd said that would trigger such spasms of hysteria.

Still unsure of what triggered this loss of composure, I put the phone on speaker and set it on the table to finish my coffee while he tried to regain his composure in a flurry of uncompleted sentences. John is normally business-like and responsive. He's always been there for me in the past, oil changes, overdue inspections, welding a tin can over the leaks in my tail pipe, or putting the inspection sticker over the ding in the windshield.

I'd only called to ask if he would put my snow tires on today. "December 11," he finally managed through his laughter and hung up still chortling. He called later in the day to apologize and amend the tire change date to December 13.

My calls to four other garages yielded either a chuckle at my naïveté or a short shrift answer mentioning a December date. Not a fan of abuse I gave up and entered December 13 on my scenic calendar from the same local garage.

I moved to Vermont in 1947 and have driven cars since I was twelve, legally since I was sixteen. Living in Morrisville, winters were harsher than they are here in the Champlain Valley — "lake effect," I believe they call it. We routinely had snow up to the windowsills and most Februarys we got a few days of temperatures in the 28-34 below zero range. My grandfather Clovis Couture had the town contract to roll the backroads with his huge wooden-stave roller with a bench on top, pulled by a team of horses. He had only retired his roller and invested in snow plows a few decades before I arrived in town with my mother in 1947.

Few could afford two sets of tires and most people just drove on what they had until they no longer had a visible tread. Safety inspections were required even in my childhood but they were more negotiable in those days. Most people used chains for serious winter driving and every car trunk had a spare tire (usually a baldy), a jack, a set of tire chains, a log chain for pulling the neighbor out of the ditch, and jumper cables. There was no Triple A that I recall. If one careened or spun out into a ditch or field, one called on the nearest farmer. Farmers knew that neighbors helped rather than charged their neighbors. It worked both ways then.

Cars were rear-wheel drive then and performed much better in snow and ice. Front-wheel drive became more common in the late seventies and set back winter driving considerably.

My first half-dozen cars were well-used VW Bugs that I bought for a few hundred dollars and drove into parts-cars. Rear-wheel drive with the engine's weight sitting squarely over the rear axle, they were like tractors and could go almost anywhere.

One winter I was going from Lincoln to a wedding in Waitsfield and the shortest route was the McCullough Turnpike (VT Rt. 17) over the Appalachian Gap, a challenging road in winter. The heater boxes on early VW Bugs were the first thing to rust away so I had no heat. At the very top on the west slope is a very steep final climb that runs above a pond locals claim is filled with wrecks. I was maybe a hundred feet from the small parking lot at the top and desperate to make it over, as the way around would have me miss the wedding and the reception. My trusty Bug began to spin and I couldn't gain any traction on the sanded black ice.

Finally, in desperation, I got out of the car, leaving the rear wheels spinning in second gear, ran around behind and pushed it. My tires finally found some solid ground and the car continued on up the short distance to the top with me running along behind it. It nosed into a snowbank and kept spinning. I hopped in and drove down the other side and made the wedding just before the vows.

Malta, Doug Jr., Teddy and the Goats

I decided to buy a sports car because my jeep was for business use. I decided on a Triumph Model TR2 white convertible, which was a mistake because it made me stand out like a sore thumb. Being an American sailor and the only one in town with a race car made me a target. The cops reminded me of the old Keystone cops in the movies. They had old black English Austins they putted around in.

When I first bought the TR2, I decided to hit every bar on the island and have a beer. They didn't have any speed signs posted but they did evidently have a speed limit on the whole island. They had no stop lights or stop signs so when you came to an intersection where you couldn't see someone coming, you tooted your horn during the day and at night you blinked your lights. I didn't realize it but one of the old cops spotted me go by and of course, I was moving fairly rapidly and started after me. He didn't find me until I stopped at the bar by the airport after hitting all the other ones. He said he had been looking for me all afternoon. He asked me if I knew the speed limit and I said I didn't know there was a speed limit and he said it was 35 and try to slow it down a little. It looked like their old cars were lucky to go 35. The roads were mostly dirt with small rocks on both sides. He was impressed by my car and we visited awhile and he didn't give me a ticket. I don't know if they gave out tickets; they didn't have official parking spaces.

We wore our Navy work uniform on and off base but the English

Navy always wore their dress uniform. I was cruising around the island in my TR2 and up ahead was two columns of British sailors marching on the edge of the road and guess what, there happened to be a long puddle in the road right beside these sailors and I couldn't resist speeding up and running the car through the dirty puddle and spraying dirty water all over the side of their starch uniforms. There was a lot of water and when I drove through it I got all of them covered with dirty water. They were all breaking rank and running after me cussing and calling me a "bloody bastard." I was praying that my car wouldn't stall out in the middle of the puddle because they were running after me and shaking their fists. I stayed away from the Brits after that and didn't even stop and talk with them anymore because one of the dozen Brits I splashed would be looking for me. I cut down on beer after that incident and I blame the beer because I would not have splashed a group like that otherwise.

Sandy had not met some of my buddies on base so we decided we would have a party at our two-story villa. I was hoping that they would be on semi-good behavior but I knew some of them were usually uncontrollable. The party started out fun but ended after someone came inside and said it was raining outside. I went out on the balcony and found some guys peeing in some flower pots and some peeing over the balcony onto the guys who thought it was raining; it was, but it wasn't plain water. I was afraid it was a mistake to invite some of them but Sandy met them and wasn't impressed. That was the first and last party we had at our abode.

We had a PX on base with limited supplies and some older Maltese guys that walked around the neighborhood with pushcarts

So how is it that after 60 years of driving in Vermont I could be so shocked and unprepared for the onset of winter. Our six cords of wood are under cover, but that's because I'm cheap and stay a year ahead buying green wood. It costs nothing to cure your own wood.

There's not a garage in Vermont that can accommodate a tire change in the next ten days and by then the snow will have melted and we'll forget again.

One would think that five months of driving on ice and snow every year would ingrain in us an understanding of how to drive in winter, but we seem to have to learn it all over again each fall.

The first snow brings on a series of fender-benders, full-fledged wrecks, and even some injuries. It's as if we have to learn to drive all over again each winter.

I can understand the UVM student from South Carolina who expressed total surprise to me when I stopped on the Interstate to be sure that he and his friends were all right as they crawled out of the upside down Jeep Cherokee in the median strip. Even I knew that when they shot by me going 60 miles an hour over black ice that they would not make the next exit. Most of us were driving slowly on the far right keeping our right tires in the snow.

"But I have studded snow tires and four-wheel drive... I thought this couldn't happen?" the dazed student said, pulling a friend through the window. No one was hurt physically, but the driver seemed hurt at the idea that he (or his parents) had invested in a Vermont vehicle and it had let him down just when he needed it most going to Stowe to ski for the day with his friends.

I tried to explain that ice is slippery regardless. When you think metal studs, think ice skate blades; they make no difference. There are two ways to drive on ice. One is not to, the other is at the speed of a box turtle.

Be warned... winter is just beginning. Mark your calendar next July to get an appointment to have your snow tires mounted in late October... and remind me to do the same.

full of vegetables that they grew, etc., and lots of goat milk. They herded the goats at different times during the week down the main road through town and stirred up a lot of dirty dust. One day I was standing in my doorway and saw this small dog running around near the goats and the goat herder trying chase him away. The dog didn't have a collar and came running over to me and stood in back of me. He hung around and adopted us. We let him in and he turned out to be a great help and could jump straight up from his back legs at least two feet and would walk on his back legs. He kept other animals away and was already well trained. We got him a collar and we gave him to a friend when my tour ended. I named him Teddy after my father.

Nine months after I surprised Sandy in French Morocco our oldest son Doug Jr. was born! I was at my post office and the Navy bus drove by and Sandy was the only passenger on the bus and was going to the hospital. She gave me the thumbs up and I followed the bus in my Jeep. The nurses and doctors were English and very good. There was a rumor going around the hospital that Sandy (the American woman) had died because she didn't scream, holler, and carry on like the Maltese women did. I wasn't allowed to be in the birthing room, thank you Lord, I didn't want to be in there. I would pass out, so I wouldn't have been any help. Doug Jr. was our experiment because we had no experience and nobody to call for advice or help from any relatives.

Bone Builders III

By Sue Kusserow

"Soften your knees."

"Duck your head in... it's the turtle tuck."

"Say your vowels and loosen up those facial muscles."

"OK everybody. Smile! It's number 10 time."

Believe it or not, all of these quotations can be explained by any member of Bone Builders. Still confused? Bone Builders is an exercise group for seniors, meeting twice a week in the basement of the Jeffersonville United Church. It is a set of exercises developed by Tufts University, with a brief training period for potential group leaders. Three years later, we are still going strong! And perhaps that is an apt phrase: we don't pride ourselves on more muscles, but with keeping our current ones in working order... agile instead of fragile. We work on balance, since that is the chief cause of forced immobility for seniors. We cover most major muscle groups: arms, legs, and a nice peaceful cool-down at the end. The only requirement for admission is the ability to count to 10(*). So far, no one has flunked.

P, at 93, just completed ten chair stands... we all cheered!

G sits out a few, at her doctor's admonition.

S comes hurrying in, having taken care of grandchildren.

D and L are late, and have such a relaxed way of fitting in to wherever we are... without explanation or apology... nice!

K pushes a walker. "It's easier than a cane."

G has many tee shirts, which advertise her involvement... often UVM.

Most of the participants are from the Cambridge area and have known each other over a long span of time. So how does a group come together and stay together?

First: a group needs a common goal, a sense of purpose, a reason to stay together. We were lucky. Tufts University started with a simply-stated and general mission statement... what do we want to accomplish?

Second: Upon this framework, specifics are added to activate the mission statement. Again we were lucky. Tufts faculty formulated exercises, practiced them with senior volunteers, and revised and amplified them.

Third: goals (exercises) need to be practical and obtainable. Each participant picks the ones most useful for her.

Fourth: practical logistics: time, size of room, heat, bathroom, parking. Thanks to the Jeffersonville Church, we are fine.

Fifth: leadership... well-versed in their roles, but not so well-informed that didactics overwhelms the followers. We're lucky to have four or five women who attended the leadership orientation. They can, therefore, spell each other in directing/singing(*).

Sixth: extraneous behaviors need to be controlled. We very cheerfully flunked this one.

I think there is an added benefit to this group: a camaraderie and a caring spirit that envelops the group for two hours a week, before we go our private ways again. Seniors are usually retired, sometimes living alone or paralleling a busy family. We value the sociability of small groups, with gentle ways of communication.

"How was the movie you saw the other night?"

"I saw A at the store and she's trying to get her mother settled. Will be back soon, she hopes."

"There will be a rummage sale here at the church. Feel free to come... some good stuff!"

"How did your visit to the doctor on Wednesday go?"

P heads off, having fulfilled his job of calling out the last number of the Chant(*)... TEN!

"B is about the same... working on his truck!"

M touches my arm. "Hey, are you supposed to be putting weight on that leg?"

D starts off with a brisk walk.

S is close enough so she can walk home.

A few hugs given and received, and we're off.

See you on Thursday!

(*) the Chant explained: 1,2,3,4, HOLD (tightening of the muscle group we're working on) 5,6,7,8, BACK (releasing the muscle group and relaxing). Repeat 10 times.

Children and their imaginary friends

Parents of toddlers and preschoolers often ask me if it is all right for their child to be speaking to imaginary friends. I won't usually answer until Dr. Check-Up, my imaginary pediatrician friend, gives me the advice I need to answer their question. Fortunately, he has, so here are my responses.

How common are imaginary friends?

Imaginary friends are a normal part of a child's development, rearing up when a child is 2½ to 3 and hanging around until age 6. More than two thirds of children will have an imaginary friend at some time and about a third will have one by age 7. They can have names, personalities, and may even be taking up space in your child's bed, so you need to be careful or you may sit on them.

Imaginary friends as a tool

First, be aware that having an invisible friend is not a sign of loneliness, poor social skills, or other serious problems. In fact, having one may be a wonderful way to stimulate creativity and imagination. They can also help children figure out the difference between right and wrong when they are not quite ready to assume complete responsibility for their actions.

Imaginary friends as a feeling

Imaginary friends can also give insight into what your child is feeling. This could be something as simple as comforting their invisible friend who is about to get a shot before they themselves go to the doctor. On the other hand, don't let your child's invisible friend be your child's only companion. Additionally, don't let them shift the blame all the time to the friend.

My best advice

So what do I recommend if your child develops or has an imaginary friend? My best advice is to let them have one without much interference in order to cultivate their imagination. Let your child take the lead and play along if asked to do so, similar to playing other pretend games with your child.

The good news is that imaginary friends will go away as your child gets a better handle on what is fantasy and what is reality. As they meet other real friends at school, the imaginary ones just disappear.

In addition, by giving your child adequate attention each day and stimulating their creativity through games, art, and play with other children, children will find they don't have to resort to imaginary friends to use their imagination.

When to worry about an imaginary friend

When should you worry about an imaginary friend? If your child won't play with anyone else or seems very withdrawn from interacting with other real people, then talk to your child's health care professional. Though it's rare, counseling may be needed.

Hopefully you'll find tips like these to be more helpful than you can imagine when it comes to dealing with your child's and maybe even your own imaginary friends.

We ordered turkeys from the Richmond Market back in the beginning of October. These turkeys were paid for by the clothing sales and cash donations you all contribute: thank you! Due to our storage constraints, the Richmond Market generously stores the birds until they are picked up by clients, one at a time. We simply do not have proper storage to accept turkey donations.

If you would like to donate a turkey, please take it to Feeding Chittenden in Burlington during open hours. They would be happy to accept your turkey donation.

Remember: everyone within the communities of Bolton, Huntington, Jonesville, Williston, and Richmond is welcome to use the Food Shelf. The food is here for you!

Union Bank awards*Jericho AED Project $500 grant

Union Bank, headquartered in Morrisville, VT with a local branch in Jericho, recently donated $500 to the Jericho AED Project. The Project is an effort to raise funds for purchase of five Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs) to be placed in public sites around Jericho.

An AED can be a life-saving tool to revive a victim of sudden cardiac arrest. Any untrained bystander can use the devices, which vocally instruct one through the simple steps to use the unit. Combined with CPR, and used quickly after a victim collapses, an AED can restore normal heart rhythm.

With encouragement from the Underhill Jericho Fire Department and the two Rescue Squads serving Jericho (Richmond and Essex), the project's goal is to raise enough funds to buy the AEDs. Already over $3600 has been raised or promised, but another $3500 is needed. Each AED costs $1449. The plan is to place them in two local stores, the library, the Café, and the Community Center. If you would like to support this worthy project, please send a check to: The Jericho AED Project, c/o Julia Blake, 18 Leary Rd., Jericho, VT 05465. Email juliavblake@comcast.net for information.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR*Many thanks to Union Bank

To the Editor,

Union Bank's headquarters has just awarded the Jericho AED Project a $500 grant. This is wonderful news and helps us on our way to purchasing AEDs for public places in town. Also, the local Union Bank employees have been very helpful and supportive of the project. We still need to raise just over $3000 to have full funding for the five AEDs but this is a big help, and is much appreciated.

JerichoThanking Cambridge responders for efforts after storm

To the Editor,

Thank you to everyone who assisted Cambridge residents during the recent flooding event! Flooding was more severe than we have seen for a while. A special "thank you" to the Cambridge Fire Department and the Cambridge Highway Department who have been very busy since early Friday morning (November 1). The town appreciates the work you do to keep us safe. VTrans and utility company crews also put in long hours this weekend.

The newly raised Pumpkin Harbor Road came through the flooding event very well, even though the project is not quite finished. Water overtopped the road for a few hours by up to six inches. That is much better than in the past. Flooding was significant in parts of Jeffersonville, but would have been worse without the recent flood mitigation projects. Most town roads fared well, with the exception of a washed out culvert on River Road, which speaks to the excellent maintenance program of the Cambridge Highway Department year in and year out. Great job!

Selectboard Chair, CambridgeMAKE A DIFFERENCE — ADOPT*November is National Adoption Month

What does family mean to you? For most of us, it means having people who love and support us and are there for us when we need them. It means having a place to call home, even after we leave.

This year, during National Adoption Month, we are shining a spotlight on the almost 100 children and youth in Vermont foster care who are still waiting and hoping for their forever families. Most are school-aged, many are older, some are part of a sibling group who want to stay together. Each and every one deserves a safe and loving family.

Pinkeye: what exactly is it?

Parents have been asking me some eye-opening questions about whether or not their child could get pinkeye. Let me see what I can tell you about this problem.

What is pinkeye, exactly?

Pinkeye gets its name because it describes the pink or reddish appearance of what is normally the white part of the eye and the inside of the eyelids. We also call this type of redness conjunctivitis.

How did my child get pinkeye?

What causes it, you might ask? Pinkeye can be due to an infection from bacteria or viruses. It can also be due to allergies or chemicals that get into the eye.

No matter what the cause, it will result in redness, tearing, itching and often a watery discharge – or, in the case of some infections, a thick white or yellow fluid. This fluid is affectionately referred to as pus. It comes out of the eyes and can sometimes cause the lids to stick together.

If caused by an infectious germ, pinkeye can be contagious. It will spread by direct contact from one infected person to another. In the case of viruses, coughing and sneezing spread it.

First steps for treatment

If you find your child with these symptoms of eye discomfort, see your child's health care professional. They can help determine the cause and in turn the treatment.

No matter what the cause, all children benefit from cleaning out the discharge with a clean, cool, wet washcloth. If it is infectious due to bacteria, then often prescription antibiotic eye drops or ointment might be recommended.

Bacterial versus viral pinkeye

If a bacterial cause is found, children can return to school after one day of drops or ointment treatment as long as eye drainage also stops. If the pinkeye is due to a virus, this may take longer.

See your child's health care professional for further evaluation and treatment if a child doesn't improve in one to two days and develops fever, blisters around the eye, or complains of severe eye pain, blurred vision, or increased tenderness and redness around the eye.

Proactive steps to prevention

Of course, the best way to deal with your child getting pinkeye or conjunctivitis is to not let it happen. To prevent this, have your child wash their hands after interacting with anyone who may have pinkeye. If another child has this problem, they should be washing their hands as well.

If you think it is due to an allergy, try to have your child stay away from what may be causing that allergy. You can do this by closing windows when the pollen count is high, keeping them away from scented or irritating chemicals like household cleaners, and avoiding their exposure to secondhand smoke.

Hopefully, tips like these will help you know what to do in the blink of an eye the next time you worry about your child having pinkeye.

Healthy Lamoille Valley receives $625,000 award

The Lamoille Valley region's primary substance misuse prevention effort among youth just got a boost to expand its work. Healthy Lamoille Valley is one of 150 national award winners of a grant from the federal Drug-Free Communities (DFC) Support Program. The DFC Program provides grants of up to $625,000 over five years to community coalitions that facilitate youth and adult participation at the community level in local youth drug use prevention efforts. The award comes from the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy.

The DFC grant — $125,000 annually over the next five years — will help fund Healthy Lamoille Valley's efforts to involve and engage the Lamoille Valley community to prevent substance use among youth. Healthy Lamoille Valley is a coalition of community organizations and individuals working collaboratively to encourage youth to make substance free healthy choices. It serves the communities of Belvidere, Cambridge, Craftsbury, Eden, Elmore, Greensboro, Hardwick, Hyde Park, Jeffersonville, Johnson, Morrisville, Stannard, Stowe, Waterville, Wolcott, and Woodbury.

"The science is clear that communities that work together to implement research-based, evidence-informed strategies to prevent and reduce youth substance misuse are successful. We are pleased that the federal government recognizes the work of Healthy Lamoille Valley and are excited to apply the funds to strengthen our collaboration and efforts within the community," said Catherine Crawley, Chair of the Healthy Lamoille Valley Steering Committee.

Recognizing that local problems need local solutions, DFC-funded coalitions engage multiple sectors of the community and employ a variety of environmental strategies to address local substance use problems. Coalitions are comprised of community leaders, parents, youth, teachers, religious and fraternal organizations, healthcare and business professionals, law enforcement, and media.

To receive regular updates on Healthy Lamoille Valley's coalition work, sign up for our mailing list at www.healthylamoillevalley.org/signup.

The Library will be closed Thursday-Friday, November 28-29 for Thanksgiving.

Early Literacy Storytime: birth to pre-school, Thursdays, 11:00 AM. Several stories will center around a theme, and there will be a theme-based craft. All ages and levels of attention are encouraged to come; don't worry if they fidget, they are still getting a lot out of it! November 21: Thanksgiving; November 28, no storytime — happy Thanksgiving!

Thursdays, 6:30 – 8:00 PM: Fiber Arts Group. Knit, crochet, and stitch with a vibrant group. All levels welcome, help given to beginners. Questions? Contact Marianne, mfishcar@together.net.

Bedtime Math's Crazy 8's Math Club! Weekly through December 12-13: grades 3-4 on Thursdays; grades 1-2 on Fridays. No Crazy 8's on November 28 or 29.

Wednesday, November 20, 7:00 – 8:00 PM: Adult Book Group. This month's book is The Seeking by Will Thomas. This book has a very special Westford connection: novelist Will Thomas had been a logger in Maine, a crew member on a fishing boat in Alaska, a prizefighter on the West Coast, a script writer in Los Angeles, and a journalist in Kansas City, Chicago, and New York. In 1946 he, his wife, and three children abandoned a plan to move to Haiti to escape racial prejudice in the United States. Instead, they made the improbable decision to purchase a home in tiny Westford, twenty miles northeast of Burlington. At the time, the Thomases were the only non-white members of the community. The Seeking is the grim account of the Thomases' lives before Vermont, their decision to give living in America one last chance, and the moving, heartfelt, uplifting story of their time among the people of Westford — a life, writes Thomas, "not based on race, but on what we and they [were] like as human beings." The Seeking is an important work of 20th century African American literature, both a story of one remarkable African-American family and a story of New England race relations in the first half of the 20th century. Extra copies available.

Friday (note the different weekday), December 13, 7:00 – 8:30 PM: CookBook Club. Join us as we resurrect a Vermont favorite, River Run Cookbook (Southern Comfort from Vermont) by Jimmy and Maya Kennedy and Marielisa Colta. The iconic Plainfield establishment may be gone, but its delicious southern comfort food with a VT spin lives on. From breakfasts and gumbo, desserts, to pulled pork — there's something for everyone in this one!

The library is no longer accepting donations of books, audiobooks, and DVDs at this time for our annual Fourth of July Book Sale. We will begin accepting donations in the spring of 2020. Thank you to community for supporting our annual Fourth of July Book Sale.

Library Hours: Wednesday 1:00 – 7:00 PM, Thursday 10:00 AM – 7:00 PM, Friday 1:00 – 7:00 PM, Saturday 10:00 AM – 2:00 PM; <http://westfordpubliclibrary.org>; westfordpubliclibrary@gmail.com. Like us on Facebook. 878-5639, Bree Drapa, Librarian.

RICHMOND LIBRARY

November Art Show: For the month of November we will be showing work Judy Bush has created from paper pulp made from recycled colored papers. For most of the work, the paper is the painting. A few have printed (linocuts) on the handmade paper.

Seeking Artists and Collectors: We are currently scheduling art shows for our walls and display case in 2020. If you have framed pieces (art, photography) and would like to schedule a show, contact us to choose your month. No professional experience is necessary, just a willingness to share your talent. We're also seeking interesting collections for our foyer display case. If you are a collector of Beanie Babies, bird nests, little cars, old books, or anything else that would fit in our case that you would be willing to share, we would love to hear from you. Call or email the library.

Raffle Baskets: We will be holding a book basket raffle during the holiday season. Baskets are full of new and gently used books for readers of all ages as well as other assorted goodies. Tickets: $1 or six for $5. This year's proceeds will support the purchase of new DVD movies for the collection.

Middle School Book Club: This fun and unique book club for kids in grades 5-8 meets in the Community Room at the library once a month, October-March. Kids will be invited to read any book they want related to the theme of the month and then to come to the meeting to talk about what they read and get other great book ideas. Each meeting will have snacks, book talks, read aloud time, activities, and more. If you would like to join this bunch of energetic kids call or email the library, 434-3036/rfl@gmavt.net. The second book club meeting will focus on magic/fantasy books and will be held Friday, November 22, 3:30 – 5:00 PM.

Cookbook Sale: We're getting a jump on our annual book sale

(held every February) by throwing in an exclusive cookbook sale on the third floor of the library during the Richmond Holiday Market. We have received an abundance of very nice donated cookbooks since our last sale and believe many of them could be of interest as gifts and/or inspiration for your holiday meals. Come take a look on Saturday, December 7, 9:00 AM – 3:00 PM.

The Traveling Storytellers Puppet Show: During this free, interactive holiday puppet show children become a part of the story, not mere observers. Holiday cheer comes alive in two puppet shows, A Wish to Be a Christmas Tree by Colleen Monroe, and the traditional tale of The Gingerbread Boy. Songs and a craft will make this a fun morning program for young children and their adults. Join us on Saturday, December 21, 10:30 AM.

Book Discussions: All are welcome to join monthly book groups at the library. Books are available approximately one month before the discussion date. Mostly Fiction Book Group, Tuesday, December 10, 6:00 PM: The Radium Girls: The Dark Story of America's Shining Women by Kate Moore. "A perfect blend of the historical, the scientific, and the personal, this richly detailed book sheds a whole new light on this unique element and the role it played in changing workers' rights. The Radium Girls makes it impossible for you to ignore these women's incredible stories, and proves why, now more than ever, we can't afford to ignore science, either." — Bustle. Mystery Book Group, Thursday, January 16: An Unkindness of Ravens (Inspector Wexford #13) by Ruth Rendell. For London's Chief Inspector Reg Wexford, it wasn't an official call. He was just being neighborly when he agreed to talk to Joy Williams about her missing husband, Rodney. Apparently, he went to Ipswich on business and never came home. Wexford has an idea what happened: He most likely ran off with one of his girlfriends. Or did he? (No mystery discussion in December.)

Fall Youth Programs: Details about our regularly scheduled programs appear below. Weekly children's programs at the library run September-May and follow the MMUUSD schedule for vacation days and weather closure days.

Baby Laptime: This short, active storytime is for our youngest little book lovers and their grownups. We'll look at picture books, sing simple songs, do some rhyming and bouncing, and sometimes get out the shakers and scarves. Designed for infants and early toddlers. Join us Mondays at 10:30 AM.

Playgroup with Stories and Songs: The good times kick off with songs and shakers around the colorful alphabet rug. Next up is storytime and snacks (bring your own). Then, the toys and art supplies come out for free play and crafts. Co-sponsored by the Lund Center. Kids from infant to age five and their caregivers are invited to join us in the community room on Wednesdays from 10:00 AM – 12:00 PM.

Preschool Storytime: This special storytime is for children ages 3-5. We will share picture books, songs, and activities with a focus on the six pre-reading skills that form a child's early literacy experience and help set them up for a lifelong love of books and reading. With great sorrow, we must inform all that Marcus Clarence Morris, age 53, of Jericho, VT passed away on Sunday, October 27, 2019. He had been ill for quite a few years with lung cancer, COPD, and emphysema. He fought a very brave and valiant battle. Marcus graduated from South Burlington High School in 1983 and attended one year of college at Vermont Technical College in Randolph, VT. He later went on to become wonderful short-order cook at the Parkway Diner in South Burlington and did this as a profession for quite a few years. He was a wonderful husband, father and stepdad, son, brother, step-grandpa, and uncle. He loved fishing (it was his favorite passion), camping, playing video games with the boys, watching movies, and playing cards, especially Pinochle. He also had a keen sense of humor and sharp intellect and entertained us all with his jokes and stories. He always tried to be positive and complimentary to everyone. He was also very adamant about treating his step-daughters and grandchildren as if they were his own. Marcus is survived by his wife of 20 years, Tamara (Tabor) Morris, and his sons David L. and Derek L. Morris, all of Jericho; his mother Grace A. Morris, of Highgate, VT, and his sisters Michelle A. and her husband Frank Kurek of Westford, VT and Sharon G. and her husband, Clement J. Martel, Jr. of Essex, VT; his step-daughters Jessica Adam of Williston, VT and her daughters, Samatha and Tabitha Adam and her significant other, Derek Murray of Starksboro, VT and their children Ava and Dominick; several nieces, nephews, and his mother-in-law Katherine Allen of Edgerton, MO; and last of all, his best friend and companion, his cat, Kitty. He was predeceased by his father Clarence C. Morris in August 2017, his brother David L. Morris in June of 1998, his sister Diane M. Keen in August of 1992, and his father-in-law Robert Tabor in 2019. There was a Graveside Prayer Service held on Saturday, November 9, 2019 in Resurrection Park, Hinesburg Rd., South Burlington, VT officiated by Father Lance Harlow, with a Celebration of Life following in the lower hall of St. John Vianney Church, Rd., Hinesburg Rd. Elmwood-Meunier Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Faith Donoghue formerly of Underhill, VT, died peacefully on November 7, 2019 at St. Mary's Home at Felician Village in Manitowoc, WI. She was born Faith Marie Williams to the late Albert and Madeline Williams in Brooklyn, NY on December 27, 1920. Faith was raised in Underhill, VT and Greenfield, MA. She attended Vermont schools until her college years at the University of New Hampshire, Durham. Faith graduated with a degree in English and was recruited to join the W.A.V.E.S. (Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service), a unit of the U.S. Naval Reserve. There she worked to decode classified military communications. After the war, Faith worked for U.S. News and World Report. In 1949, she married John Durbrow and they raised their five children in Underhill Center, VT. Faith worked primarily as a teacher and librarian, most recently at Mount Mansfield Union High School. She corresponded until her death with the dear friends she made at MMUHS. After being widowed in 1974, she married John Donohue of South Burlington, VT in 1982. Faith enjoyed her role in the lives of John's four adult children, their spouses and grandchildren. She was widowed again in 1986. Faith once said the most important event she witnessed in her 90 plus years was the shift in the status of women, especially their economic power, resulting from the social restructuring of the 1960s and 1970s. Faith's interests included her P.E.O. sisterhood, genealogy, her beloved 200 year-old non-fiction book club "Fortnightly", UVM's Master Gardener Program, the Underhill Historical Society, and service to St John Vianney parish in South Burlington. Classical music was her constant companion. Faith leaves her five children, Mary Medora (Deborah Dempsey) Durbrow, Bellingham, WA; John (Karen Steingraber) Durbrow, Manitowoc, WI; Kenneth (Luann Miller) Durbrow, Santa Fe, NM; Timothy Durbrow, Underhill Center, VT; and Deborah (Johh) Sherlock, New Haven, VT. Faith's surviving stepchildren include Christine Hannaford, Virginia; Martha Donoghue, Burlington, VT; Michael (Anne Marie) Donoghue, Burlington, VT; and Mary Frances Collins, South Burlington, VT. Through the combined families, she leaves 13 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren. Memorial services were held at the Blessed Angela Chapel at St. Mary's Home at Felician Village. Online condolences may be sent to the family at www.harriganparksidefuneralhome.com.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS

Ecology, Natural Resources, and Planning Action courses

Why is it important to plan for Vermont's ecology and environmental natural resources? And how can we take action in our communities?

The Agency of Natural Resources (ANR) has a two-course series that is being presenting throughout the state to talk about those questions. The courses are designed primarily for those involved in natural resources planning and conservation work, and are open to those throughout the region.

The courses were developed collaboratively by all three branches of ANR.

Vermont's Ecology and Environment (NR1): This first course provides the scientific concepts behind the natural resources planning issues Vermont communities often face. Participants will be introduced to a full suite of natural resources — forests, wildlife, floodplains, climate change, and much more — through a framework designed to facilitate prioritization and improve understanding of how Vermont's various natural resources work together. Presentations are interspersed with interactive hands-on activities. This is a two-part series to be held at the Richmond Town Hall on Thursdays, December 5 and 12, 6:30 – 8:30 PM each day. Suggested donation of $25 to benefit the Association of Vermont Conservation Commissions. To register, contact Monica.Przyperhart@vermont.gov.

Taking Action in Your Community (NR2) This sequel to Vermont's Ecology and Environment helps participants choose locally appropriate land use planning strategies for conserving natural resources. It uses case studies and exercises to show how taking action can work in real life. The overall goal is to build understanding of what you can do, how to work with different people in your community, how to choose ways to protect natural resources, and how to make results happen! This is a two-part series to be held at the Richmond Town Hall on Tuesdays, January 28 and February 4, 6:30 – 8:30 PM each day. Suggested donation of $25 to benefit the Association of Vermont Conservation Commissions. To register, contact Monica.Przyperhart@vermont.gov.

Winter Wildlife Ecology and Forest Management Walk

Join Ethan Tapper, Chittenden County Forester, and Andrea Shortleeve, Wildlife Biologist for Vermont Fish and Wildlife for a free, public walk of an active timber harvest at the Hinesburg Town Forest (HTF) on Saturday, December 21, 1:00 – 3:00 PM. This walk will highlight winter wildlife ecology, wildlife tracking, and the active forest management underway at the HTF, and how this work at the HTF is expected to influence wildlife habitat and behavior.

The Hinesburg Town Forest is an 864-acre property owned by the Town of Hinesburg and managed by the Chittenden County Forester since the 1950s. It is a beloved resource, used by people from all over the region for hiking, mountain biking, bird and wildlife watching, and other activities.

To join the walk, meet at 1:00 PM at the plow turnaround at the end of Economou Road, Huntington. Be prepared to spend two hours out in the elements, including some walking over uneven and slippery surfaces.

ART / MUSIC / THEATER

Joel Najman, long-time host of My Place, which airs on VPR (107.9 FM) at 8:00 PM on Saturdays, turned 75 on November 8. Najman's Vermont career started at WFAD in Middlebury, where he attended Middlebury College. He worked at a variety of Vermont stations over the years, serving as morning announcer, program director, and news director. He moved to VPR in the early 1980s, and since 1982 has been the "host and producer" of his weekly show. Najman was inducted into the VT Association of Broadcasters Hall of Fame in 2004. Self-taught, Najman taps his wide and deep knowledge of the music and the times of the doo-wop and rock music of the 1950s and 1960s — and the times before, and since. There are so many kinds of music that he loves, and knows everything about! He knows that her first recording listed her as "Diane Ross." Want to know all about the records produced by the son of Doris Day?

Or all about an obscure-to-us doo-wop band from the early '50s? A program dedicated to songs with spoken lyrics, or that mention a particular season? There's always more to hear and learn at My Place!

Mansfield Nordic Club adult and youth programs

Registration is open for Mansfield Nordic Club's youth and adult programs.

If you have kids who love to ski, or if you are interested in introducing them to the sport, MNC offers several programs for young athletes.

Our Penguins program is an introductory option for skiers ranging from grades K-1. Our Jackrabbits (grades 1-4) are younger, newer skiers who have a focus on improving technique and fitness, while having fun and getting to know what ski racing is all about. The Arctic Foxes (grades 5-8) are older skiers who love having fun on snow but aren't interested in racing at this time. The Racing Team (grades 5-8) are older skiers who love to ski and want to learn how to go faster!

For adults, we offer coach-led Masters programs in the afternoon during our youth programs, as well as evening sessions.

Mansfield Nordic Club (MNC) is a ski club based in Jericho. The only Nordic-specific club in New England certified at the Bronze-level classification by U.S. Ski and Snowboard, MNC offers programming for all ages and abilities. All programs take place at the Camp Ethan Allen Training Site in Jericho, where trails with lights and snowmaking make for great skiing even in the darkest months!
